Clackmannanshire and Stirling

Strategic Plan - Easy Read Version

2016 - 2019

Health and Social Care Partnership

Hello,
Clackmannanshire Council, Stirling Council and NHS Forth Valley will be working together in new ways to help people to stay healthy, happy and independent.

People are living longer and often with more health problems. We want to help with this and make sure everyone has the same chance of good health and wellbeing.
We want to make sure that people stay healthy. We want people to be more in control of their health and care. We want people to live happily at home for as long as possible.
This is our 3 year plan. It is called The Strategic Plan.

Shiona Strachan, Chief Officer, Clackmannanshire and Stirling,
Health and Social Care Partnership

Why are things changing?

- People have asked for better joined up services from the NHS and Councils.

- People are living longer and with more health problems.

- We can spend public money in a better way.

There is a new Government law called The Public Bodies (Joint Working) (Scotland) Act 2014. The law says that the NHS and Council areas have to work together to provide adult care. This is called integration. Clackmannanshire Council, Stirling Council and NHS Forth Valley are now in a Health and Social Care Partnership to provide integrated adult care.

Who will help to make it happen?

This is the plan of how we will make adult services better. The Integration Joint Board and the Chief Officer need to make sure the integrated services are delivered well.

What are the outcomes?

Outcomes are the result of what we do. We will look for outcomes in these areas to see if things are getting better.

Self-Management - People are able to look after their health, care and wellbeing.

Community Supports - People can live well at home or in a home they like in their community, for as long as possible.

Safety - People are safe and live well for longer.

Choice - People make choices about their care.

Feelings - People are happy with the care they get.

Everyone getting care should feel well supported. Everyone should feel that their care support teams are working well together to provide their care.

In the next 3 years, together we will

- Make sure that your care team can easily find out and share important information about your care.
- Make sure that staff who work best together for you work in the same place.

- Make sure it's easy to understand what will happen when you need help.
- Set up support plans for people with long term health problems.

- Make it easier for you to contact the service you need for help.
- Set up more 7 days a week health and care services.

- Open the Stirling Care Village.
- Spend money on what works well.

- Help unpaid carers to stay healthy and feel supported so that they can continue to provide care.
- Try to help people stay healthy and well at home so that they only go into hospital when they need to.

Together we can work to make sure you get the best care.

Localities

The Clackmannanshire & Stirling Partnership area will be divided into three smaller areas called localities to help plan and deliver services.
